5th Anniversary of Clash At Clairemont Brings Out Action Sports’ Biggest Names

This March, thousands of San Diegans will once again support the YMCA and the fight against cancer through what has become one of the best action sports exhibitions in the country.

The 5th anniversary of the “Clash at Clairemont” takes place from 11am to 6pm on Saturday, March 19th, at Mission Valley YMCA’s Krause Family Skatepark (3401 Clairemont Drive, San Diego, CA 92117).

The event will feature some of the biggest names in skateboarding and BMX including Andy Macdonald, Tony Hawk, Bucky Lasek, Pierre-Luc Gagnon (“PLG”), Simon Tabron, and many more. All proceeds benefit Mission Valley YMCA and Grind For Life, a nonprofit dedicated to supporting survivors of cancer.

The demo will feature up-and-coming amateurs, as well as seasoned pros in a variety of settings from the street course to the pool to the largest outdoor ramp on the West Coast – the one hundred foot, 2006 X-Games Vert Ramp, donated by ESPN. The event will feature contests, food, giveaways and a vendor village with sponsors like Sony, MovieTickets.com, Monster Energy Drink, Osiris, Vans, DC, and more. There will also be an autograph session with the pros after the demo.

In addition to the athletes, popular punk band Agent Orange, the opening band at the first Clash at Clairemont five years ago, will be headline the entertainment and will be joined by other musical acts.

Tickets can be purchased for a minimum $10 donation at the door. For more information, visit www.clashatclairemont.com or call 619-298-3576.
